Does this research result make our Fritz a health guru?

The latest research findings prove what dancers have always known – dancers live longer, healthier lives.

Dancing

can boost energy levels, flexibility and happiness in older adults and help them age better, a study has found. Researchers from Queensland University of Technology (QUT) in Australia examined the health and wellbeing benefits of dancing.

doesn't affect me!

They also felt happier and enjoyed a sense of community and friendship.

So... keep dancing!
