The Elanora Bell Ringers

The cowbell is a hand percussion instrument used in various styles of both popular and classical music. It is named after the similar bell historically used by herdsmen to keep track of the whereabouts of cows.

While the cowbell is commonly found in musical contexts, its origin can be traced to freely roaming animals. In order to help identify the herd to which these animals belonged, herdsmen placed these bells around the animal's neck. As the animals moved about the bell would ring, thus making it easier to know of the animal's whereabouts. Though the bells were used on various types of animals, they are typically referred to as "cowbells" due to their extensive use with cattle.

After some instructions from Jenny they all played a wonderful rendition of Edelweiss from the popular musical The Sound of Music

Edelweiss, edelweiss
 Every morning you greet me
 Small and white, clean and bright
 You look happy to meet me
 Blossom of snow, may you bloom and grow
 Bloom and grow forever
 Edelweiss, edelweiss
 Bless my homeland forever

FESTIVAL IN OKTOBER
Sunday 1st October

The record is currently 21 minutes, 17 seconds!

After a couple of minutes the shoulder muscles begin to burn, and gravity sees to it that the pain only gets worse, until shaking occurs and the arm drops.

Beer-stein holding competition

We have a winner!

Masskrugstemmen (literally "beer-stein holding") is a traditional Bavarian endurance contest during which contestants must hold a one-liter stein of beer (we used water instead) in one outstretched arm for as long as possible.

Well done Gunter!

... and of course all the others!

Great effort!

Oktoberfest

In case you didn't know, Oktoberfest (or Wiesn) is a fall festival that originated in Munich, Germany all the way back in 1810. It started as a celebration over the marriage of the crown prince of Bavaria which ended in a race. The following year the race was combined with a fair that included booths of food and drink. Now, the booths have developed into large beer halls and the festivals include parades, folk costumes, amusement rides, music and dancing. It's no wonder so many people enjoy these celebrations!
